SZECHUAN DISSENSION

Rumour Of Martial Law Order At Chengtu

NORTH CHINA ECONOMIC PLANNING

Peiping, To-day.
The two advisers on economic matters, appointed to study development work in North China, Mr. Hiraio and Mr. N. Yuzawa, arrived in Peiping this morning and were met by General Terauchi, the commander-in-chief. After an hour's conference, the visitors were introduced to members of the "Provisional Government."—Our Own Correspondent.

ITALIAN VIEW OF GERMAN RE-SHUFFLE

Rome, To-day.
The German developments form the main theme of discussion in the Italian press.

"Messaggero" sees in the changes a series of measures destined to consolidate Germany's foreign policy, while in the paper's opinion, General Goering's appointment as Field-Marshal perhaps heralds further promotion and the assumption of still more important and extensive functions in future.

"Popolo di Roma" says that the new Foreign Minister has always been an energetic champion of German colonial claims.

"Gazette del Popolo" writes that the taking over by Herr Hitler of supreme command guarantees the closest co-operation between party and army.—Trans-Ocean.

POLAND AND MANCHUKUO

Tokyo, To-day.
It is considered highly significant here that Poland has notified her intention of opening a Consulate in Harbin shortly. The nominee is leaving Warsaw on February 11.

The step is regarded in Japanese quarters as constituting virtual recognition by Poland of Manchukuo. — Our Own Correspondent.

Militarists Object To New Governor

Hankow, To-day.

Rumours of trouble in Szechuan, arising from the dissatisfaction of certain Szechuanese militarists at the appointment of General Chang Chun as Governor in succession to the late General Liu Hsiang are causing more anxiety among Government officials here.

Reliable information is lacking from foreign quarters and the Chinese authorities are preserving silence regarding developments, but it is persistently rumoured that a state of martial law has been imposed at Chengtu where the trouble is focussed.

JAPAN WILL DECLINE TO DISCLOSE NAVAL PLANS

Tokyo, To-day.

Japan will reply to the representations made by Britain, France and the United States on naval building, but the reply will not disclose anything about Japanese naval plans.

Decision to this effect has already been taken, it is understood, following important deliberations in the Japanese Admiralty.

The formal reply to the three countries will be communicated on February 20.

Japanese naval circles are said to deplore this joint action by the three Powers, which is regarded as an excuse for expediting their own rearmament.

JAPAN'S ATTITUDE

Japan, it is insisted, is bound by no treaty, and is hence under no obligation to accept proposals made by the three Powers or to reply to them within the prescribed period.

Nevertheless, Japan will reply in order to clarify beyond doubt the international situation which has undergone a change as the result of adoption by the three Powers in question of a policy of rearmament.—Trans-Ocean.

CANTON MORE OPTIMISTIC: RIVER MAY SOON BE OPENED

Canton, To-day.

Canton has practically recovered from the "scare" of the last two or three days and conditions are rapidly returning to normal.

A curiosity of the situation is that hundreds of refugees from bombed districts round about are flocking into Canton, while scores of Cantonese are proceeding into country districts.

As the result of recent experience, an anti-air-raid expert is reported to be coming from Hankow to reorganise the A. A. defences of Canton.

Last night it was rumoured that the river at Bebing Field Barrier boom would be opened this morning, but day dawned and the obstruction, with military guard, was still maintained. There is, however, a much more optimistic feeling and foreign quarters here believe that river traffic may be restored before the end of the week.—Our Own Correspondent.

Exotic Colours Dominate

Now is the time to let your thoughts emerge from wintry sombreness and let them dwell on plans for a new Spring wardrobe.

Though most of the shops are still expecting the bulk of their Spring stock, a few all-over prints have made an early appearance at Vogue's and Maizee's are launching the first big stride into Spring by holding a showing of their new shipment from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. to-day.

Since the very "first" of any new season fashions to appear in the shops are invariably the smartest, I am sure you fashion-wise women won't let these first print collections get out of the shops before you make your choice.

Exotic, Brilliant Colour

At Vogue's I was thrilled with the variety and newness of the few prints on display, and the colours of these new arrivals are stunning, too. I could see that colour is going to dominate the fashion picture this Spring more than it ever has before. Exotic, brilliant colour — misty ethereal colour in silks, in mixtures, in hats, frocks and suits.

Bright hues will in all probability dominate the colour scheme. They will come in multi-colours, slap-dashed in bold patches, like an exotic tropical painting. Black, that ever present colour, is still with us, and one particularly charming frock at Vogue's had a black ground with chubby little chicks printed in red all over.

As for this first glimpse of spring dress silhouettes — they're mostly pencil slim, broken by a wide draped sash, with short sleeves the favourites, and necks high and draped or low and cleverly accented with brooches or flower clusters. Tucking and shirring, and dressmaker details mark them definitely soft and feminine, but they're still refreshingly simple. So much so, that wearing one under your untrimmed town coat will be your first wardrobe venture for Spring.

Low-Down On Hats

The sweeping high hats we have worn all winter have given away to pancake berets, flat sailors, and tambourines. Black straw is the favourite, and veils are still very much the thing for mystery and allure.

Worthy of mention among the hats I saw is a perky black straw tambourine model, trimmed with Paisley cloth, and a small peaked model in black which is worn at a very jaunty angle and tied under the chin with two lengths of narrow grosgrain ribbon.

The Colour For You

Lastly, before I leave you to see the new Spring things for yourself, and just in case the thought of emerging from wintry sombreness leaves you feeling strangely inadequate and puzzled, here's a brief personalised chart, taken from the Textile Colour Card Association's forecast to help make the choice of colours more simple and becoming for you.

Colours in wools, for those "little suits" jackets, and tailored spring frocks include:

"French sapphire," stunning on a blue-eyed brunette or a blue-eyed definite blonde, or on an in-between with very fair skin.

"Vintage wine," best on a brown-eyed blonde or a blue-eyed brunette.

"Canard blue," excellent with gray hair and blue eyes or on an ash blonde with green eyes.

"Fuchsia rose," best on brown-eyed, brown-haired types with fair skin.

"Burnt clay," smart on auburn-haired types with either blue or brown. Yes, good for brown-eyed blondes.

"Chantilly green," stunning with very light hair and skin or very dark hair and fair skin.

"Paris violet," good on either blonde or brunette with fair skin and either violet or brown eyes.

"Crushed strawberry," the perfect colour to bring life to indeterminate colourings.

"Beaten gold," good for a vivid blonde or a vivid brunette.

"Capri blue," another of those life-giving colours, only to be avoided by too swarthy complexions.

Hues For Silks

Then, in silks for blouses, for shirtmaker or afternoon frocks and for evening costumes:

Here's An Exercise Chart For Every Housewife!

If your back get tired when you are sewing or polishing the silver this movement will relieve it and it is also good exercise for the waist muscles. Sit well back on a chair with your hands grasping the edges. Hold the edge of the chair with the right hand and take several little bending and stretching movements to the left, letting the left hand slide down as far as it will go. Repeat to the other side.

Washing up, ironing, etc., tend to pull your shoulders forward. If you do this movement afterwards it will relieve fatigue in the muscles of your back and prevent you from getting round-shouldered. Hold your head up and raise your chest, press your shoulders back as far as possible, turning the palms of the hands forward. Relax, repeat 6 times.

After Sweeping

If you are tall your broom should have a long handle so that you do not have to stoop, and tire your back. A shorter person needs a short-handled broom. Take long strokes with the broom, stretching your elbows well, this will exercise your arms. Rest your hands on a chair back. Raise your heels and bend your knees halfway down, keeping your back straight. Stretch your knees and lower your heels. Repeat this 4 times. You should take your shoes off while doing this.

This will prevent your back getting stiff and tired after washing or polishing the floor. While you are still in all-fours position place your hands directly under your shoulders, keeping the elbows straight and having your knees beneath your hips. Now drop the tummy, letting the back sag, arch the back up. Repeat 4 times.

The Early Bird Catches The Worm At Vogue's And Maizee's

Tropical Glamour

That's what the majority of Spring prints will be reflecting this year. Here you see the idea — massive flowers, carried out in multi-coloured hues, splashing a black print afternoon frock. High neck, short sleeves, shirring and draped sash — all keynotes of fashions "first" for Spring of 1938.

"Antibes gray," excellent on very glowing, blue-eyed person or gray-haired type.

"Sparkling wine," both blonde or brunette, dark skinned or light can wear this colour.

"Atlantic blue," best on brunette with dark eyes.

"Dalmation purple," can either be worn by fair skinned blonde or brunette or tanned, blue-eyed person.

"African clay," a perfect choice for golden skinned person with brown or fair hair and brown eyes.

"Cornflower blue," best on blue-eyed, fair skinned type.

"Vamp red," excellent on brown-haired, brown-eyed type; dramatic on definite brunette or blonde.

"French green," the perfect choice for bronze-haired, brown-eyed person.

"Ice green," only very fair-skinned person with either blue or brown eyes should wear.

"Pastel pink," equally effective on blonde or brunette, blue-eyed or brown.

A Savings Account Of Beauty

The pleasant part about conducting your personal beauty campaign on a limited income is that you accomplish far more than merely balancing a budget. You learn what preparations you really need, because you can't afford trial-and-error methods. You make it your business to know the best ways of applying your things, because you have to get the most out of them. And you don't find yourself possessed of a useless assortment of unrelated beauty items, wondering how they ever came into your life, let alone into your dressing-table drawers.

Beauty Budget

Probably the most fundamental approach to wise spending is to list the specific beauty preparations that you need and figure how long given quantities of them last. Then, you know the amount you must spend, and can allow for buying large sizes of basic preparations—a concrete form of saving.

If you can't figure such a precise plan for yourself, you might try one that an important beauty specialist has worked out: a series of yearly expenditures, for which her less affluent clients pay her eternal allegiance and the following yearly sums. She figures that a girl from fifteen to twenty can get by on fifteen dollars a year for skin preparations and make-up; the woman from twenty to thirty should spend a minimum of twenty-five dollars; and the woman over thirty should allow thirty-seven dollars. If there are special conditions to cope with, you have to add a little more, and any one who takes care of her own nails adds five dollars per year. This specialist warns, however, that corrective preparations are more expensive than preventive.

Double Duty

Another down-to-earth suggestion is to look for a double meaning in every specialised preparation you buy. Many of the milky liquids have a toning effect and will serve as a powder base for dry skin. A softening lotion can be a

APPLE NECTAR

Wash and quarter 4 small summer apples. Place in kettle with a quart of cold water. Boil till tender. Sweeten and let boil up. Remove apples for sauce, pour the juice into a can, cool and set in the refrigerator. At needed, pour into glasses with ginger ale to taste. It is a refreshing drink.

PEASANT KERCHIEFS

Peasant kerchiefs, usually silk squares, shrouding the top and back of the head and tying under the chin, will soon be available in fabrics made water-repellent.

hand softener, body rub, powder base, and a protection against the elements. Some dusting powders are made with deodorant properties. The creams for refining pores do a wonderful job on elbows and knees. You can get cleansing creams with bleaching properties. There are any number of good creams made now that are specifically intended to serve as night creams, as well as cleansers. An eye-cream can be used around the eyes at night; on the lids beneath a coloured shadow or, without shadow, to give a sheen; on your brows to make them shiny; on your lashes before mascara, or without it.

Almost every one uses too much cream at one time. In salon treatments, the operators use only enough (with the exception of the masque preparations) to dissolve on the cushions of their fingers. If you apply cleansing cream in a light film and let it stay long enough to dissolve make-up, you use up less cream, and get your face cleaner than by slathering it on and off. When lipstick disappears as though you ate it, remember some of the best varieties are made with refills. If you keep your lipstick smoothed off occasionally with tissue, it won't develop smudgy sides that make you throw it away before it is finished.

Poor Economy

Incidentally, economy on the price of lipstick is poor economy, especially if you have found one that suits you. A lipstick that doesn't look true on your mouth or with a case that seems cheap will be in the discard soon, no matter how carefully you spend your money.

When you go to a salon (and you should go when you can manage it, not only for the ministrations on your face, but for the lift to your morale), pay some attention to the tricks the operators have for make-up. Learn some simple manipulations for treatment creams from the directions in the excellent booklets the manufacturers put out. If you find that a certain treatment really helps your skin, buy the works in the way of preparations for it when you can, and repeat the whole procedure at home, allowing full time for relaxation, make-up, and so on (maybe you have heard that one before!). Include in your musts one of those miraculous masque preparations that pick you up in a short space of time even when your face looks as though all were lost.

Hands And Hair

If you do your own manicure, try putting a final coat of colourless varnish over the tint. It acts as a fixative and holds the polish longer. Or keep at home a bottle of the exact polish your manicurist uses, so that, if a chip occurs, you can put a new coat over the whole nail, instead of rushing back to the manicurist. If you live in a hard-water district, get a thick, creamy lotion, and rub it well into your hands, but, before you wipe it off, put your hands under cold water. The water acts as a fixative, and the hands are velvet.

Remember that a good brush is one of the best and most economical pieces of beauty equipment there is, and use it steadily. Clean your hair with a tonic and a brush every two or three days, and you will need a shampoo only every two or three weeks. Give yourself an oil treatment at home always before a shampoo, simple and incredibly effective. Keep a light waving lotion for home-work between waves. Put cream on your face every time you sit under a dryer—that not only helps to save your cream; it actually helps to save your face.

MEAT SAUCES TO BRING OUT FLAVOUR

Often times all the meat dish needs is a sauce to bring out the flavour and add that de luxe touch which it seems really good cooks have. Men particularly like meat sauces served with their favourite meats.

TARTARE SAUCE

Combine
1 cup mayonnaise with
1 tablespoon chopped pickles
1 tablespoon stuffed olives
1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Serve at once. With fish dishes.

APRICOT SAUCE

Combine
1 cup cooked, mashed, slightly sweetened dried apricots with 2 tablespoons horseradish. Mix thoroughly. This is especially good to serve with baked or broiled meats.

PINEAPPLE SAUCE

Combine
3/4 cup well drained crushed pineapple with 2 teaspoons grated horseradish, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Season to taste with Paprika and Salt

Fold in
2 tablespoons whipped cream. Serve at once. It is delicious with lamb chops.

RAISIN CURRANT SAUCE

Wash and drain
1 cup seedless raisins. Combine with 1 cup currant jelly and
1 tablespoon minced orange peel using the yellow outside rind. Add Mustard to taste. Mix thoroughly. Let stand two hours. Served with roast beef or pork.

TOMATO SAUCE

Heat
2 cups canned tomato soup to boiling. Add
1 teaspoon chopped green pepper,
1 teaspoon chopped onion
1 teaspoon butter. Season to taste with

Pepper. Simmer five minutes. This may be served with various meats.

Children Who Outgrow Their Strength

Need The Tonic Help Of
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Many young girls and boys are deprived of the full enjoyment of their childhood days because of their anaemic condition. They are pale, weak, listless, easily tired, and unable to compete with other children of their age, either at work or play. Sometimes they are subject to fainting bouts, and extreme nervousness makes their lives a misery. During the critical years when childhood is being left behind wise mothers will especially watch their daughters for signs of anaemia, which, if neglected, may lead to serious ill-health.

Generally, a tonic to build up the blood and strengthen the nerves is all that is needed to put the child on the road to health and happiness, and time and time again, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved just such a health aid for the young.

These tonic pills contain all the elements necessary for imparting to the blood an abundant supply of oxygen and iron wherewith to build up the nerves and tissues. They put new life, new vitality into the body, weight is increased, appetite is restored, nerves are strengthened, the whole system is invigorated.

As well as for anaemic girls and boys, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally beneficial to men and women of all ages who feel their health slipping from them. They are sold by chemists everywhere.

PROMINENT H.K. CHINESE SUED OVER ALLEGED BOND SALE PROMOTION PLAN

Four prominent local Chinese personalities Sir Shouson Chow, Mr. Kan Tong-po, of the Bank of East Asia, Li Sing-kui, Chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, and Shou J. Chen, of the Bank of China, figured as defendants in a summary action at the Supreme Court this morning, when Francis Yee claimed a sum of $818.33 before the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell.

The first and fourth defendant entered a counter-claim for $385 from plaintiff for breach of duty in authorising or procuring the printing of 10,000 posters on October 10 last.

Plaintiff when being cross-examined by Mr. Sin, was threatened with committal by the Judge, when he called Mr. Sin a "Confounded liar."

Mr. Peter H. Sin and Mr. C. Y. Kwan appeared on behalf of defendants.

Plaintiff, represented by Mr. M. A. da Silva, claimed $818.33 as salary due to him in respect of a contract to conduct an advertising campaign for the sale of Chinese National Bonds in Hong Kong, which was agreed to be terminated on March 31, 1938.

VERBAL AGREEMENT

It was alleged that defendants verbally agreed to employ plaintiff from November 1, last year, at a salary of $200 a month for five months and that they terminated his services on November 13.

In the witness box, plaintiff said he first met the Sub-Manager of the Bank of China, a Mr. Lam, in the month of September, in connection with the advertising campaign. Mr. Lam introduced fourth defendant to plaintiff and on September 13, plaintiff received a letter from fourth defendant, stating that the Sub-Committee controlling the sale of the Bonds in Hong Kong had agreed to approve a sum of $2,000 for the conduct of the campaign.

Plaintiff understood that he would "receive a generous allowance at the termination of the campaign in addition to substantial remuneration." No figures were mentioned.

On October 4, plaintiff saw Mr. Lam regarding posters and had a conversation with fourth defendant. Plaintiff also saw Mr. P. H. Sin regarding permission from the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs to place the posters on the streets.

THE POSTERS

Regarding the posters mentioned in defendants' counter-claim, plaintiff stated that they were approved by Mr. Lam and fourth defendant and 10,000 copies were ordered from the Rumford Printing Press at a cost of $385, which were ready on October 13. They were taken to the bank and fourth defendant paid for them by cheque on delivery.

Plaintiff agreed there was some trouble with the S. C. A. regarding the posting of the posters and the wording. The S. C. A. denied that permission was given for their circulation on the streets.

Asked from whom he obtained permission, plaintiff said Mr. P. H. Sin gave him to understand that the posters had been passed by the S. C. A.

Mr. Sin interrupted and warned plaintiff that he was under oath and that he would get into serious trouble should he make any false statements in the witness-box.

S. C. A. POSITION

Plaintiff said he went to the S. C. A., and was told that no permission had been given Mr. Sin. The Third Assistant stated: "As far as we are concerned we will not prosecute if you do not do it lawfully, but we don't know what the police will do about it."

Not on any occasion was he told by defendants that he had exceeded his authority in printing the 10,000 posters, which were left with fourth defendant at the Bank of China. Plaintiff later saw the posters exhibited at the China Emporium and at shops in Wanchai.

At a meeting on October 26, Sir Shouson Chow told plaintiff: "From now on you will get $200 salary a month, no matter how many persons you employ." This agreement, added plaintiff, was to come in effect a November 1.

DISMISSAL

On November 10, plaintiff was verbally informed by fourth defendant that he must wind up his work, and he wrote to Sir Shouson Chow informing him of Mr. Chen's decision. Three days later, plaintiff received a letter from Mr. Chen, terminating his services as from November 15. Plaintiff went to Messrs. Deacons, who wrote a letter to Mr. Chen on November 17.

Plaintiff, in reply to Mr. Silva, said he was never given to understand that his services could be terminated without notice.

On November 24, Messrs. Deacons wrote again to Mr. Chen informing him that should no reply be received from him a writ would be issued. Cross-examined by Mr. Sin, plaintiff said he did not know where the Bonds were originally issued. He was not aware that defendants had been delegated by the Chinese Government to sell them.

Mr. Sin: "How did you come to see Mr. Lam?" — "I went to see him on my own initiative."

"You knew that the Bank had been authorised to sell the Bonds." — "Yes, I went to see Mr. Lam with a proposition for increasing the sale by advertising."

Late in August he was introduced to Mr. Chen, who asked him to put his advertising ideas in writing.

This was the first separation flight of this revolutionary aircraft, destined for trans-Atlantic service.

The two units, fastened together, took off from the water as one aircraft, and at a height of 3,000 feet, the two pilots pulled the release levers and the units separated, finally alighting on the Medway as separate aircraft.

France Worried By Developments In Germany

Paris, To-day.

The Premier, M. Camille Chautemps, cancelled his week-end holiday plans and remained in Paris.
Although it is denied that his decision to remain in the capital was the direct outcome of the German developments, it is fully recognised that the position is such as to demand the fullest attention of the French Government.

French Foreign Office officials continue to maintain a very reserved attitude on the question.

Meanwhile, public interest is focussed on next Friday's debate on foreign policy in the Chamber,
which has acquired added significance by the German changes.

ROME-BERLIN AXIS

Political circles think that the changes have greatly strengthened the Rome-Berlin axis, and will lead to increased influence by Signor

Mussolini on Herr Hitler as regards Spain.

New Nazi Decree Of Discriminatory Taxation

Berlin, To-day.

The German Government has passed a bill making certain changes in the distribution of taxation.
Racial factors are taken into consideration in that in future no tax abatement either on income tax or a wage levy will be granted in respect of Jewish children whose parents will henceforth have to pay these taxes in full.

Furthermore, alterations are made with regard to the German Church tax.

Formerly persons paying this Church Tax, which is compulsory throughout Germany, were allowed to deduct its amount from their taxable income, whereas the new Bill provides that the amount deducted in respect of the Church
Tax must not exceed two per cent.
of total income.

This change has been made “because certain church communities had increased the Church Tax and used this additional revenue for promotion of Church welfare work, which was thus being carried out at the cost of the State.”

The Bill aids the small wage earner by providing that the level at which wages are exempt from taxation will be raised from 80 marks 8 pfennig to 84 marks 50
pfennig a month.—Trans-Ocean.

POLAR GROUP AGAIN IMPERILLED

Moscow, To-day.

The latest message from the Papanin North Pole expedition, marooned on a drifting ice floe, states that at 4.10 yesterday afternoon the ice had pressed up to ten points, and sometimes blocks of ice were heaped upon one another.

The entire camp is prepared to be transferred in sledges.—Reuter.

CHINESE SUCCESS NEAR WUHU

Anking, To-day.

After changing hands twice in the past four weeks, Wanchih on the Kiangnan Railway south-east of Wuhu was recaptured by the Chinese forces on February 5. Communication from the south to Wuhu is cut off.

As a counter move, the Japanese are attacking Fangchang, which is held by the left wing of the Chinese forces, to relieve the Chinese pressure on Hsuanchen.—International.

ADMIRAL HORTHY IN WARSAW

Warsaw, Yesterday.

The Hungarian Regent, Admiral Horthy, accompanied by the Foreign Minister, M. Kanya, arrived at Cracow to-day on an official visit to Poland.

Among those at the station were Marshal Rydz-Smigly and several members of the Cabinet.

Important questions are expected to be discussed by Admiral Horthy during his stay in Poland.

HWAI RIVER BATTLE RAGES ON

Hankow, Yesterday.

The centre of hostilities
on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway is at present on the banks of the Hwai River,
where a lively artillery duel
took place to-day.

The Chinese state that their troops, holding the north bank, will be reinforced.

The Japanese are bringing up reinforcements to the south bank, apparently to replace heavy casualties suffered in the last few days.

The Japanese advancing on Hwaiyuan, 20 kilometres west of Pengpu, are stated to be held up by the Chinese.

MOPPING UP

Japanese forces south of the Hwai River are engaged in “mopping up” operations, several bodies of Chinese troops having been left behind in the withdrawal across the river.

Neutral military observers doubt if the Chinese will be able to counter-attack across the river, as to be successful, an operation of this kind would have to be supported by intensive bombardment and bombing.

The Chinese themselves are being subjected to a merciless hail of shells and bombs, and they will do well to hold the Japanese at bay.

FRESH PRESSURE

The situation north of the T.P.R. is apparently unchanged, but the Peiping-Hankow Railway was the scene to-day of renewed artillery activity.

The Japanese, heavily reinforced, are making strong efforts to advance south in order to establish contact with their troops on the Hwai River.

General opinion is that the situation cannot be predicted until the fate of Hsuehchow is decided.

The Japanese can be seriously checked only by the Chinese holding Hsuehchow but if the Japanese succeed in capturing the town,
they will have the enormous advantage in controlling the T.P.R.

MR. CORDELL HULL FOLLOWS MOVE OF MR. CHAMBERLAIN

United States Willing For Limitation Of Arms

STRONG CRITICISM OF "HERMIT NATIONS"

Washington, To-day.

The willingness of the United States Government to limit and reduce armaments, was expressed by the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, in a broadcast speech yesterday.

Mr. Hull said: "While in a world in which increased construction of armaments is a regrettable fact, we are compelled to render adequate our military and naval establishment, we are ready at any time to join other nations in a common effort to bring about a general limitation and reduction of armaments."

Mr. Hull attacked what he called "hermit nations," meaning nations seeking economic self-sufficiency.

He declared that economic warfare was largely responsible for the recent alarming disintegration of international relationships.

War and fear of war was gripping the minds and stultifying the spirit of mankind, and feverish preparations for potential armed conflicts were sapping the already badly impaired economic health of many nations.

DESPERATE NEED

The world desperately needed international order based on revitalisation of international law.

Mr. Hull concluded by offering as one means of peace his programme of trade agreements. — Reuter.

JAPAN TO HONOUR FAMED STATESMEN

Tokyo, To-day.

As preludes to celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of promulgation of the constitution on Japan's Empire Day, February 11, bronze statues of three great Japanese statesmen of the Meiji period will be unveiled in the Diet building on February 10.

The unveiling ceremony, to be held at 9 a.m. in the central hall of the building, will honour Prince Hirobumi Ito, Marquis Shigenobu Okuma and Count Taisuke Itagaki.

On behalf of both chambers of the Diet, Mr. Ozaki will present branches of a sacred tree in honour of the memory of the famous statesmen.

Mr. Ozaki is the only person among the 800 members of both Houses who enjoys the distinction of having been acquainted with all three men. — Reuter.

BRITAIN'S WARSHIP PROGRAMME

London, To-day.

Mr. Hector Bywater, naval correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" says that the British Naval Estimates to be introduced at the end of the month, provide for additional battleships and cruisers designed within Treaty limits — 35,000 tons for the former and 8,000 tons for the latter.

Alternative plans for larger and more powerful types have also been prepared, however, and these will be adopted if the Japanese reply to the British Note on naval construction is in any way unsatisfactory.

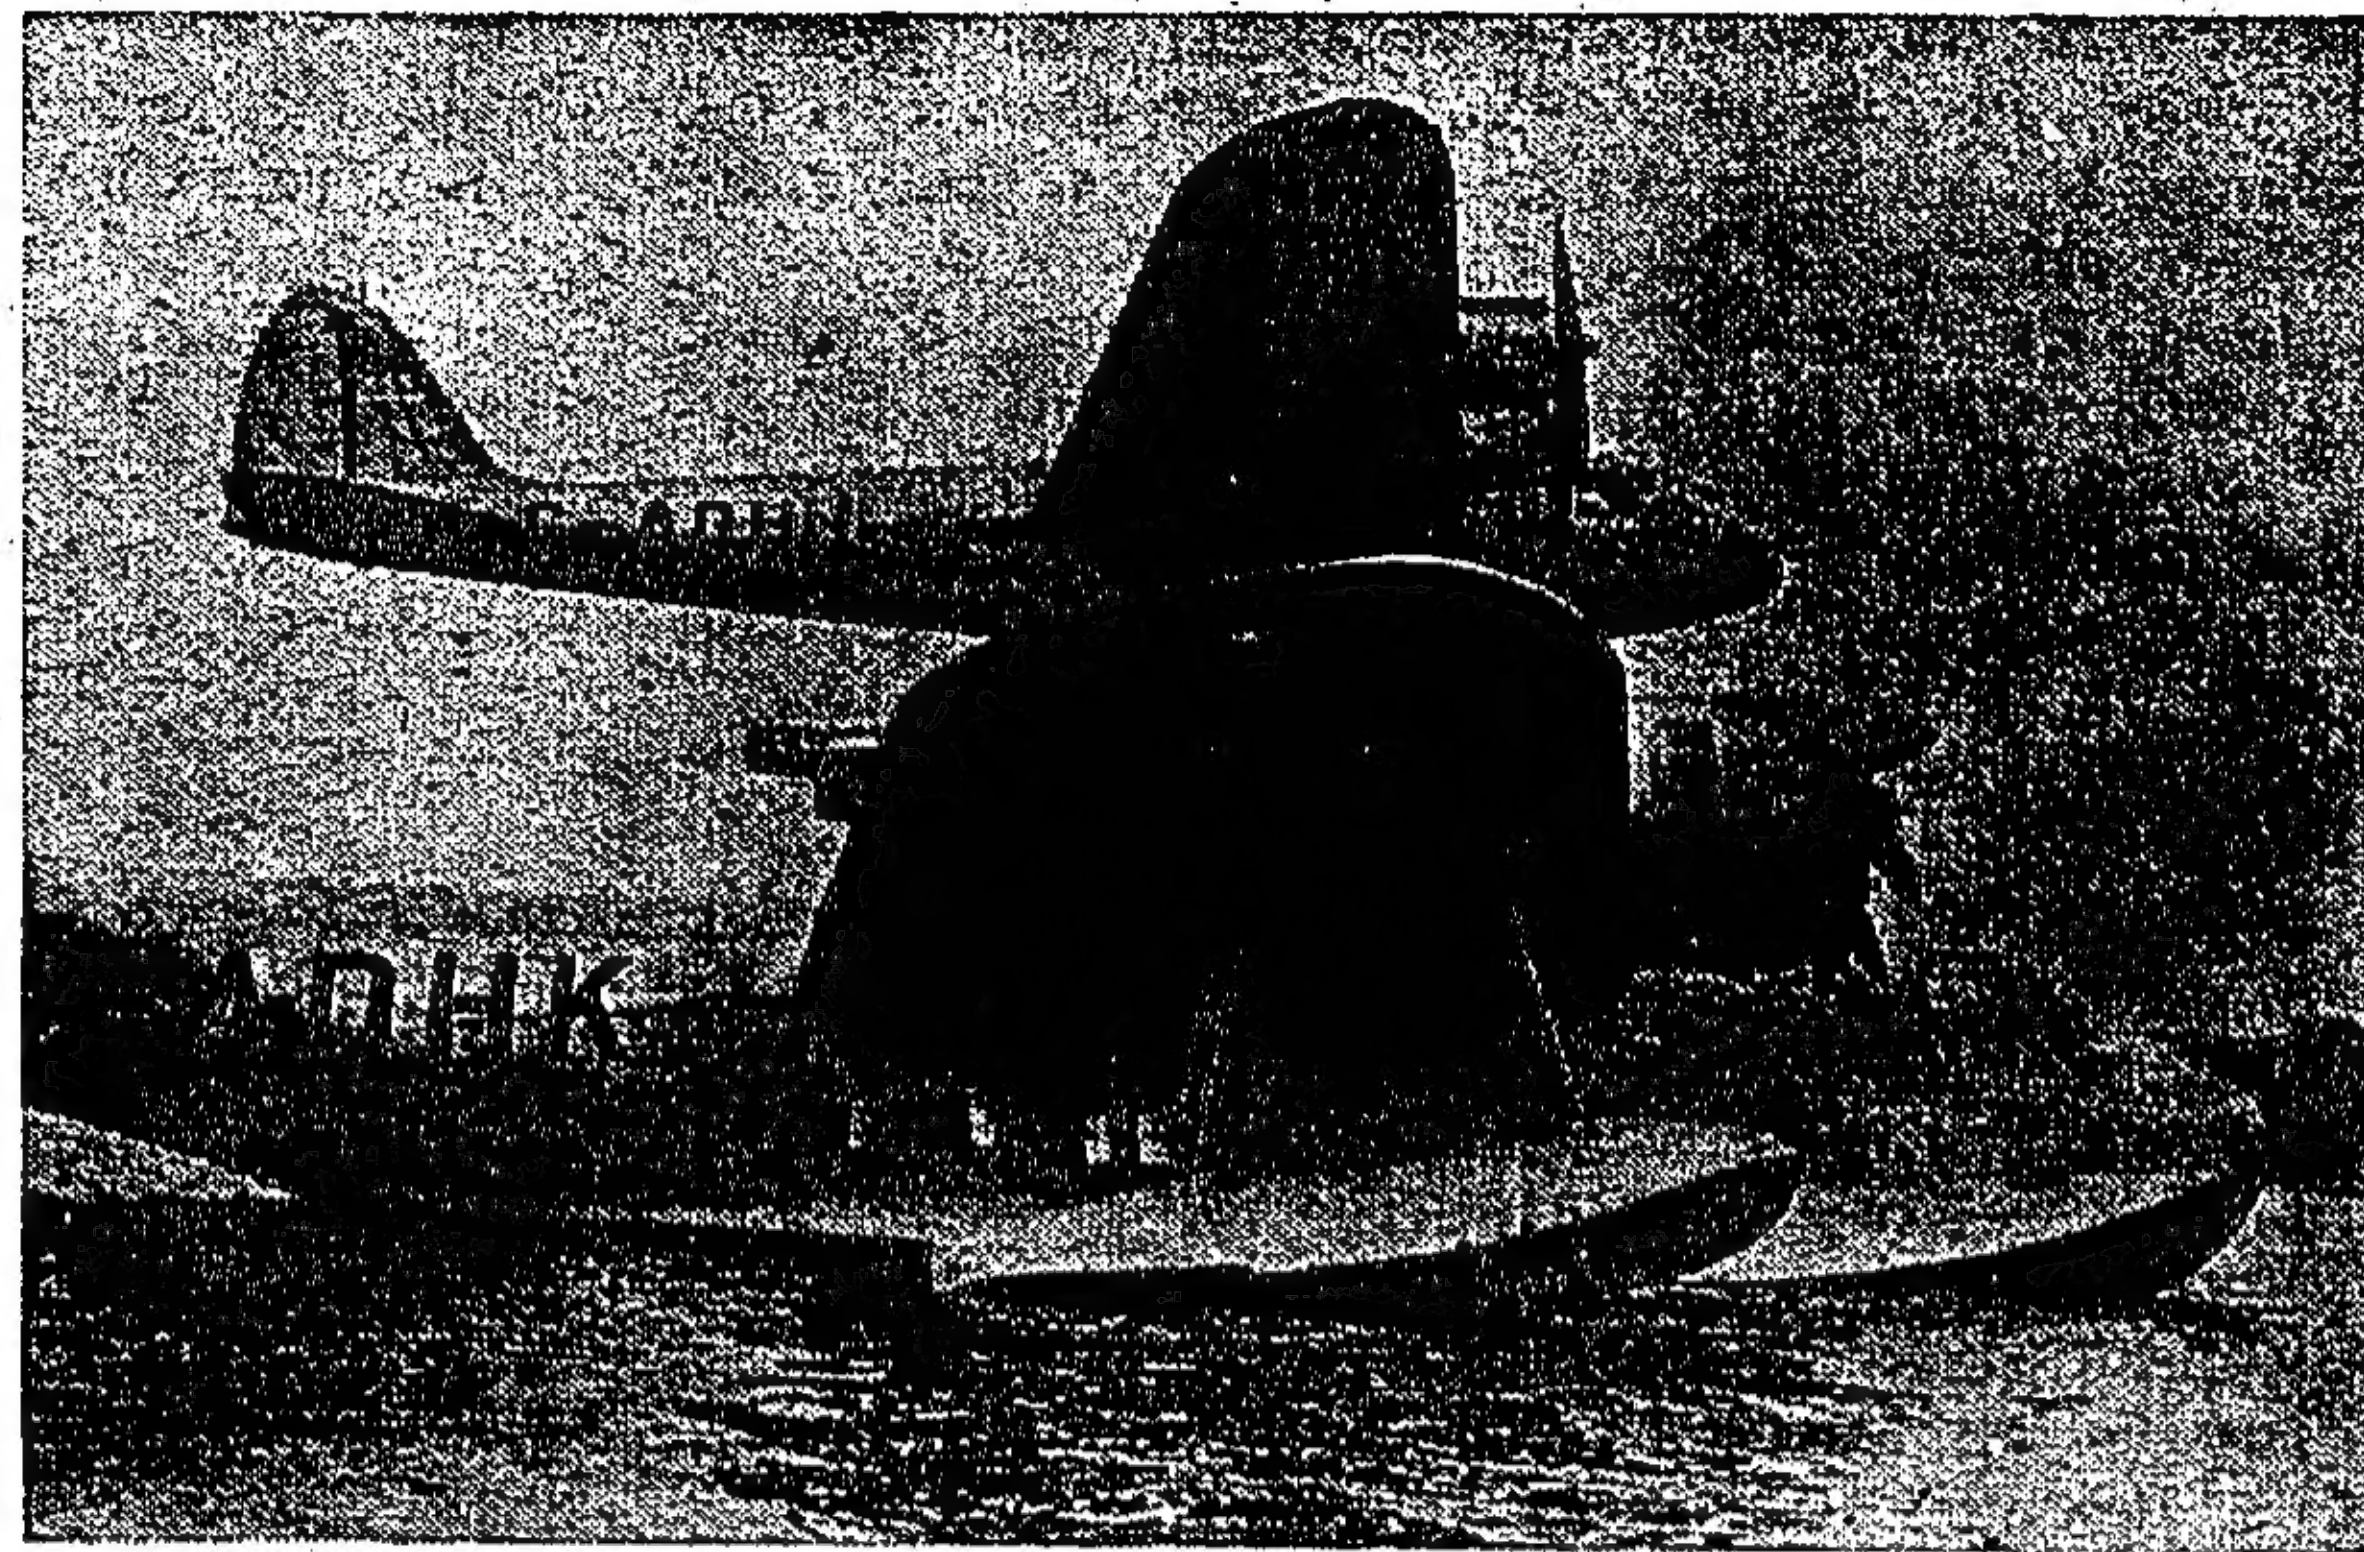

It is understood that it is proposed to lay down from three to five battleships during the summer and autumn.

JAPAN'S TWO SHIPS?

If it becomes known that Japan is constructing vessels above Treaty limits, this year's British battleships will exceed 40,000 tons and will mount a formidable armament of 16-inch guns.

In the same eventuality, the new cruisers may be ships of 10,000 tons, with 8-inch guns.

The correspondent adds that in British naval quarters it is believed that Japan already has on the stocks two battleships of more than 40,000 tons, and two further units are about to be laid down. — Reuter.

AN ENGLISHMAN LOOKS AT AMERICA

AN American magazine recently held a nationwide straw ballot in which 54 per cent of the voters decided that American intervention in the last war had been a mistake. When some of my American friends have tried to apologize for or explain away such a percentage, I have replied (usually to their surprise) that a similar vote taken in England might well lead to a similar result.

Such opinion in both countries is, indeed, more a reflection of feeling about the next war than about the last. Never, perhaps, have America and England — without knowing it — been nearer to a common determination. That determination is to have peace at almost any price. The British refusal to take a strong attitude in the matter of protecting shipping off the coast of Spain seems to parallel the Washington decision that in any future war America will trade with belligerents only on a cash-and-carry basis.

This is not cowardice. It is not even the Wilsonian gesture of being too proud to fight. It is just the sane man's decision to keep out of trouble as long as he can. In fact, as one American expressed himself to me: "When a drunken man in a crowded bar challenges everybody else to fight, the answer is usually silence — not because everybody else is afraid, but because everybody else is sober."

During the last few months I have had the chance to talk to many Americans in many different states, from New York to California; and there is, it seems to me, a growth of kinship with England that is all the better for being, in some of its roots, reluctant. More harm than good is done by the sentimentalists of both countries who stress the bonds of race and language. To begin with, the bonds of race do not apply to a majority of Americans; and there is no reason why the bonds of language should be, of themselves, any more efficacious than they are between England and Southern Ireland, or between Germany and Northern Switzerland.

I was struck by America's huge interest in our Coronation last May — yet I feel that it should not be exaggerated out of its context.

— BY —
JAMES HILTON

Americans love pageantry, and are worshipers of most things that they haven't got — i.e., ancient ritual, fifteenth-century cathedrals, thousand-year-old traditions, a Royal Family. People in Los Angeles stayed up half the night to listen in to the Coronation broadcast from England; but this did not prove that they were pro-British. It merely showed the American's typical eagerness to get a personal "kick" out of anything that comes to him from abroad — a sort of childlike receptivity which enriches alike the British novelist-lecturer, the Norwegian ice-skater and the Oriental yogi-merchant.

Eschewing sentiment, however, there is much to hearten the Englishman who feels that Anglo-American friendship is the brightest hope of the world to-day. There is, to begin with, America's slightly wistful admiration for the English way of managing things. Even that part of the American press which no one could accuse of being Anglophile is always pointing out the greater sureness and celerity of British justice. Wall Street admires the sound record of British banks. Washington labour conciliators sigh for the spirit of tolerance that enabled England to offer the spectacle of the world's completest general strike without the loss of a single life.

In all these things America is likely to forget, or to ignore, the comparative recency of the standards she admires so much. English public life in the eighteenth century was as corrupt as the domain of any modern American ward-boss; the South Sea Bubble was madder than the Wall Street crash of 1929; and the works of Dickens provide an antidote to any complacency Englishmen may feel about yesterday's behaviour. It almost seems as if nations have to accelerate through the same gear-changes, and that America, compressing our own thousand years into her own hundred and fifty, has not yet emerged into a smooth-running "high."

As one American (a New York magazine editor) said to me puntingly: "Of course we have graft. Nothing but graft could have built up America in anything like the same time — transcontinental railways, mass-production factories, schools, public works, one car for every five persons, radios and refrigerators in nearly every house. Oh yes, Upton Sinclair is right — the whole thing is just as full of graft as a machine is full of oil — and why not? We shall be different when we can afford to be, and maybe our present troubles are caused by wondering whether that time has already begun to arrive."

In all this one has to remember that the most vitriolic things are always likely to be said by Americans — about themselves. They are mercilessly self-critical; and if we English laugh at Babbitty, let us admit that they themselves laughed first. And, anyhow, let's be honest about Babbitty.

The other day I was in a mid-Western town that might have been Zenith. At the drug-store counter with me were typical American small-town businessmen and workmen, all eating the same standardised fifty-cent lunch and talking about real estate, stock-markets, "boom" prospects, and so on.

Through the window I could see a row of parked cars, a gasoline station and, beyond it, the town's solitary, heavily-mortgaged and perfectly unnecessary skyscraper. But, I reflected, these men — business men and artisans alike — would return later in the day to more creature-comfortable homes than many an Italian palazzo or English manor house; their children, well-fed and healthy, would squander their youth in college, not on the parade-ground; and the skies above them would remain as safe as a million years ago. Heavens! If you despise Zenith, would you rather have Guernica?

Two points are bound to crop up in any discussion of Anglo-American relations. First, the debt question. I have met few Americans who expect the debts ever to be paid, and fewer still who can understand why we can't pay them. To argue that transfers of money between two nations are technically impossible or harmful merely makes the intelligent American (and perhaps some intelligent Englishmen, too) ask why, in that case, cash always comes pouring across the Atlantic from London whenever there is a lift on Wall Street. To argue that, in equity, we should not pay unless and until we have been paid by others, bores where it does not exasperate.

As a matter of fact, the average American isn't, unless he is reminded of it, especially interested in the debt question. Like a businessman who has already cut his losses, he doesn't enjoy counting them over and over again; and a partial resumption of payments would be such a drop in the ocean of his own budget deficit that he can't feel especially concerned, still less grateful at the prospect. Furthermore, he suspects — rightly or wrongly — the familiar financial manoeuvre of paying back one dollar in order to re-borrow five.

The second point — and perhaps, by implication, the more significant one — is the detached yet predominantly sympathetic way in which America is watching the British rearmament programme. Most Americans regard British rearmament as

DIPLOMATIC RE-SHUFFLE IN LINE WITH REST OF COUP

Rome, Tokyo And Vienna Focal Points Of Policy

German Newspapers On Significance Of Developments

ESSEN, YESTERDAY.

COMMENTING AT LENGTH ON THE DIPLOMATIC RE-SHUFFLE WHICH WILL RESULT IN REFILLING THE AMBASSADORIAL POSTS IN LONDON, ROME, VIENNA AND TOKYO, THE "ESSENER NATIONAL ZEITUNG" SAYS THAT THIS IS IN LINE WITH THE IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE IN THE ARMY COMMAND AND IN THE FIELD OF ECONOMICS.

The paper, however, observes a certain restraint in committing itself upon the grounds that all final decisions regarding diplomatic changes must await the approval of the foreign governments in question.

The paper asserts that the German Ambassador at Tokyo, Herr von Dirksen, has already made repeated requests to be relieved of his post "because of failing health does not permit him to fulfil his duties in a manner necessitated by the present state of affairs in the Far East."

Without making a forecast as to his probable successor, the paper limits itself to remarking: "This post, which is so vitally important from the viewpoint of world politics, must be filled by a man in full possession of his physical forces."

ROME POST

Regarding possible successor to the Ambassador in Rome, the paper declares: "A man has been chosen as German Ambassador to Fascist Italy who is not only one of Herr Hitler's oldest co-fighters for the cause of National Socialism but who even during the years of the Party's struggle for power in Germany, was a bosom friend of Signor Mussolini."

The paper also emphasises the importance of the Vienna post, declaring that "this office is at present of vital significance to the Reich."

Through these changes in the diplomatic service those posts will be reoccupied which may be regarded as focal points in the present international political situation.

GOERING MOUTHPIECE

The paper, which is generally regarded as the special mouthpiece of General Goering, deals particularly with the changes in the economic field, emphasising that the shake-up is the action of General Goering, who has "acted with his usual thoroughness with the end in view of bringing about necessary improvements."

"Under his leadership, the haphazard apparatus which was the Reich and Prussian Economics Ministry, and which until recently was hampered through personal compromises dating from the period before the Nazi Party came into power, has been changed into a commanding post which is capable of successfully directing Nazi economic policy."

"SHINING EXAMPLE"

"In its new form, the Economics Ministry, which was formerly a standing problem of the Nazi state, has become a shining example of the manner in which under the unified direction of forces and through the co-operation of recognised experts from the Party, the army and the economic field, the tasks can be accomplished which are vitally important to the future of the German people.

"The Economics Ministry is in the charge of men who possess the reputation of qualified experts in all economic problems."

"Confidence also prevails that under such leadership, the conscientious Nazi economic policy will be carried on."—Trans-Ocean.

HOME FLEET LEAVES LISBON

London, Yesterday.

A Lisbon message states that warships of the Home Fleet which have been on a visit to the Tagus have left for Gibraltar. FOREIGN PLANES AT HANKOW

Shanghai, Yesterday.

A Japanese naval spokesman told journalists to-day that photographs taken in the Hankow area by a naval observation plane revealed that the Chinese Government was well equipped with planes of foreign manufacture.

Planes identified in the photographs included British-supplied Gloster Gladiators, American-supplied Curtiss Hawks and Soviet planes of the E-16 type.

It is reliably reported that the Soviet Government has recently supplied the Chiang Kai-shek Government with 250 fast bomber-pursuit planes.—Our Own Correspondent.

FRANCO WARNED

an additional guarantee of world peace, and I have never yet met any American who felt that the two countries need match themselves, even on paper, as potential enemies.

On the contrary, the launching of every additional British warship not only gives America no qualms on her own account, but affords the extra satisfaction that London and not Washington is paying for it.

The two countries are, in this frantic world, perhaps the only cool-headed realists left—as far from truculence of a Palmerston or a Theodore Roosevelt as from the idealisms of a Lansbury or a Wilson. Indeed, of their common policy to-day Britain and America can vary the famous slogan by saying: It may not be magnificent, but at any rate it is not war.

TIME FOR REFLECTION

Appearances in most things that have to do with Sino-Japanese hostilities are exceedingly deceptive and just as it is possible that there is no purpose in the visit of Dr. H. H. Kung to Hong Kong other than the transaction of urgent personal business, so it is possible that the ruthless widespread onslaught of the Japanese navy in South China in the last week is no more than an outburst of unpleasantness lacking specific purpose. At the same time, the Japanese fleet concentration in surrounding waters is, in itself, portentous and taken in conjunction with the most recent statements of Prince Konoye—admitting the possibility of an open declaration of war in the near future—it may well be that the long-discussed invasion of South China is about to materialise.

Japan is faced by this difficulty. Unless a punitive expedition—which is the official style of this undeclared war—prescribes some limit of its own to the "punishment," that "punishment" will presumably continue for so long as China remains impenitent. The Chinese, it may be presumed, will refuse to cry "Enough!" so long as they believe that resistance may gradually bring about one or both of two things—economic exhaustion of Japan and intervention by one or more strong Powers. She has nothing to lose by such a policy; any other would involve acceptance of the principle of vassalage. The possibilities in the alternative are quite incalculable, and if Japan should not now listen to counsels of caution, the consequences can be conjectured only with intense anxiety. Whatever Japan's staying power may be, there is no disguising her supreme desire for early termination of the campaign. Behind all the bragging Japan is gravely uneasy. Mr. Nathaniel Peffer, writing in the "New York Times" soon after his return from the Far East, and Mr. de Vere Redman, writing from Tokyo contemporaneously to "Oriental Affairs," agree in diagnosing Japan's growing fear that her commitment to an indefinite war in China will imperil her position when it is in Tokyo always when, not if—Russia throws her weight into this struggle. The political authorities in Tokyo are for caution; their voice is being increasingly suppressed. The Army has been credited, also, with some misgivings. But it is fairly well known by British observers in the Far East that the Japanese Navy is pressing upon Imperial Headquarters the supreme decision—for a declaration of war and the ruthless prosecution of it, whatever the consequences.

The advantages and disadvantages of this course have been long and acutely debated in Tokyo. The Japanese Navy, having a year's supply of its own material requirements in hand, is for declaring war. It holds that by regularising the blockade of the whole China coast—a blockade the Japanese fleets are quite capable of making effective—it can prevent the entrance into China by the sea route of all arms and supplies. Japanese patrols can halt and search all neutral shipping from the island bases already established off the south coast. It would make great "face" for Japan to apply in this region against British trade (Great Britain being the declared villain of the piece). Britain's own war-time practices in mastery of the sea. There remains, of course, the now difficult line of foreign supply for China through outer Mongolia. But even if neutral shipping treat a Japanese wartime blockade with scrupulous respect, there are formidable chances of friction with Great Britain and the United States. Notoriously Tokyo has hesitated in the knowledge that, with declaration of war, the American President would have no choice but to invoke the Neutrality Act, prohibiting any exports of war supplies from the United States to Japan unless carried in Japanese ships. This is but one deterrent. Japanese insistence, in war, upon treating Shanghai International Settlement as Chinese territory, and its foreign residents as having no rights beyond those of neutrals in an invaded country, would raise a host of new troubles with the Powers. Retirement of their military forces might even be demanded. Any repetition of Yangtse ruffianism at Hong Kong would invite British counter-measures of which Japan has had as yet no experience. The gravity of Tokyo's imminent decision should from these indications be sufficiently obvious.

Toot

The locomotive's toot has entered the tootological laboratory. The Union Pacific railway in the United States has had a corps of experts analysing the cost of a toot and as a result the tootarch of tootology has announced that every toot of the tooter costs the railroad the huge and almost incomprehensible sum of one-eighth of a cent. Presumably the laboratory also took up the cost of a tootle, but no report thus far has been made.

When it is considered that one full-grown and vigorous engine may develop a tooter capable of producing a thousand or more toots in a day, the importance of this investigation becomes apparent. Extravagance and waste in the dissemination of toots must cease. Even the gentle little toot that is released as the signal of a passing engineer to the good wife on the back steps must be omitted. A great many toots are necessary to the safety of the public, but even these should be trimmed to a point where it may be possible to shoot them across the countryside at a cost of not more than one-twelfth of a cent per toot.

As a matter of fact, most of the toots are of such a robust character that complaints of their sleep-stealing propensities have become quite general. It is evident that the time is ripe for a reorganisation of the vast tooting system which prevails all over the globe.

ROYALIST PLOT PRELUDE TO HITLER'S STROKE

Crisis Alleged Brought To Head By Herr Himmler

Dossier Revealing Army Monarchist Movement

Paris, To-day.

A remarkable story of a Royalist plot in Germany is told by the Basle correspondent of "Le Temps."

The correspondent states that he received information from people who left Berlin yesterday that the crisis was brought to a head by Herr Himmler, chief of the secret police, handing to Herr Hitler on January 30 a dossier purporting to show that General von Fritsch, commander-in-chief of the army, and other generals, had formed a secret organisation for putting the second son of the ex-Crown Prince on the throne.

JAPANESE CEASE ATTACK ON BOCCA TIGRIS

Canton, To-day.

Japanese troops who landed on Chikiau Island, near Tongkawan, yesterday morning, are still on the island, according to an official Chinese report.

While seven Japanese warships remained in the vicinity, no further bombardment or other activity has taken place since yesterday, which seems to confirm earlier suppositions that the landing was purely for reasons of exercise.

Meanwhile, there are no further reports of attacks on Bocca Tigris Forts, and no Japanese warships are apparently operating in this stretch of water during the week-end. — Reuter.

The informants referred to Herr Himmler's animosity to the Reichswehr, and asserted that he gave the Soviet Ambassador last summer information in regard to secret contacts between certain German generals and the Soviet General Staff, which resulted in the execution of Marshal Tukachevsky and others in Russia last summer.

WILHELMSTRASSE DRAMA

There were rumours in Berlin of the imminent arrest by the police of certain generals, whereupon it was stated that General von Fritsch called a secret meeting, and on the morning of Jan. 28, sent a company of regulars to occupy a house in the Wilhelmsstrasse near the Chancellery, with a view to showing Herr Himmler that he would meet force with force.

Various strategic measures were also taken at different points in Berlin, and thereafter General von Keitel began negotiations with Herr Hitler on behalf of the army.

Tong Ka Wan Reduced To Ruins By Savage Bombardment

Macao, To-day.

As a result of the almost incessant bombardment by Japanese planes and warships during the past few days as a reprisal for the capture of two nippon airmen whose machine landed in the Chungshan District a few days ago, a reliable foreign source states that

Tong-ka-wan is now lying in ruins.

Casualties are proportionally high in that town and many of its terror-stricken inhabitants have fled.

It was also learned that the Japanese have landed troops at Kei-Hao, and not at Tongkawan according to yesterday's report.

The Chinese were unsuccessful in preventing the landing although they greeted the Japanese with withering machine-gun fire.

The invaders, however, were supported by a heavy barrage put up by their naval vessels.

At 1.15 p.m. yesterday Japanese naval guns went into action again while air bombers continued their raids on Chungshan Island.

The gunfire, which lasted nearly half an hour, was clearly heard in Macao. It is yet too early to obtain any information coming from Chinese territory, but it is believed that the Japanese have had Heung-chau as their objective.—Our Own Correspondent.

BRITISH A.A. GUNS NEW TARGET

Paris, January 26.

British anti-aircraft batteries will in future use for their practice shooting a novel type of target which is described by military experts as an "adaptation of the clay pigeon shooting principle."

The targets up to now, which were towed by planes, proved impracticable, it is pointed out, since the maximum towing speed was only about 80 miles per hour which is far less than the speed attained by modern planes.

MINOR REVOLT AT HwaiYUAN QUELLED

Hankow, To-day.

Chinese reports state that the major battle for possession of the northern bank of the Hwai River, continued all day yesterday.

Japanese detachments made renewed efforts to cross the river with the intention of advancing on Hsuehchow, but were driven back.

The Japanese, it appears, have not taken Huaiyuan, about nine miles west of Pengpu.

The Chinese admit that a minor revolt by Chinese troops has occurred in Hwaiyuan. It is stated that a small band of traitors was surrounded by Chinese regulars and the revolt crushed.

COUNTER-ATTACK

The Chinese launched an attack in the direction of Pengpu, but according to latest reports, apparently without success.

On the other hand Japanese attempts to strike out west from Tingyuan have failed.

The Japanese are believed to be contemplating crossing the Hwai River further west, probably in the neighbourhood of Tienchinyan, terminus of the Kwainan Railway, where the river is much narrower. —Trans-Ocean.

A vivid illustration of the present state of affairs in strife-worn Palestine is given by this picture. Actually taken on Xmas Eve outside the Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem, it shows men of the Black Watch and a Ghaffir on armed patrol. So, even at Bethlehem with all its associations with Christ's childhood, even on Xmas Eve, armed men were constantly needed to protect the populace from the menace of political fanatics. Tone Of Foreign Notes Astounds Tokyo Officialdom

Tokyo, To-day.

An official statement regarding the representations made by Britain, France and the United States to the Japanese Government in connection with naval building, is not yet forthcoming.

Political quarters here declared yesterday that the three governments are "evidently trying to shift the moral responsibility for their own re-armament on to the shoulders of Japan."

The "ultimative" character of the Notes, it is declared, caused "extreme astonishment" in Tokyo, since Japan had submitted at the London Naval Conference proposals based on the principle of complete equality, which if accepted, would have produced more positive results towards restriction of armaments.

Since these proposals were rejected, Japan is certainly not prepared to-day to recognise demands which aim at virtual restoration of parity in naval strength which promoted Japan to revoke the Washington Naval Treaty.

Japanese naval quarters believe that the Notes are intended to compel Japan to make a statement regarding her naval construction plans. — Trans-Ocean.

BRITISH DEMAND

London, To-day.

The text of the British Note requesting information on Japan's naval construction plans, which was handed to the Japanese Foreign Office on Saturday, was published here yesterday.

The Note points out that although the Naval Treaty of 1936 and the naval agreements concluded by Britain with Germany and Soviet Russia last year, limited the size of battleships to 35,000 tons, these agreements nevertheless contain a clause which gives Britain the right to build large battleships if some Power not party to the agreements builds battleships of a tonnage exceeding that allowed by treaty.

ASSURANCE REQUESTED

After expressing regret that the Japanese Government did not officially deny the rumours prevalent for some time regarding Japanese alleged intention to build battleships of more than 35,000 tons, the Note declares that the British Government will be compelled to invoke the escalator clause, providing for modification of the agreement regarding limitation of the size of battleships, unless it receives an assurance from the Japanese Government that Japan does not intend to build, launch or acquire by sale before January, 1943, any battleship whose tonnage is greater than that allowed by treaty.

The Note asks Japan to elucidate for the British Government regarding Japan's naval construction plans before February 20, and declares that if the request for information is not received by that date, or is unsatisfactory, Britain would necessarily come to the conclusion that Japan intends to build battleships of more than 35,000 tons.

LIBERTY OF ACTION

Britain in that event would regain complete liberty of action and would enter into consultation with other Powers regarding modification of the qualitative restriction clauses.

If Japan has already started construction of battleships larger than 35,000 tons, Britain is prepared to enter into negotiations regarding gun calibre, the negotiations, however, to be completed before April 1. — Trans-Ocean.

Mr. Sin: "Before you commenced to work for Mr. Lam, had you any regular employment?"—"Yes."
"Which firm?"—"They are too numerous to mention."
"What kind of work?"—"Advertising and publicity."

FREE LANCE

Pressed further by counsel to state which firm he worked for previously and what sort of work he had been engaged in doing, plaintiff eventually remarked that he was a free lance.

Mr. Sin: "In other words, you were a member of the unemployed?"—"No."

"Then will you please state which firm you worked for?"—"The Far East Oceanic News."

Plaintiff said that he had an office but closed it owing to the high rent.

"You are unemployed now?"—"Yes."

"Have you tried to look for work?"—"Yes, but have been unable to obtain it."

Mr. Sin: "I take it that your purpose in visiting Mr. Lam at the Bank in August was to do your best to help China?"—"It was two-fold, to do something for China and to get a job."

STAFF OF NINE

Questioned further, plaintiff said he employed nine persons, Charlie King Chen, S. Y. Poon, A. Y. Poon, two office-boys, Leung Siu-ping, Mr. Fung, Frank Chong and C. Y. Chong. He denied that he approached Mr. Ngan Shing-kwan, Manager of the China Motor-Bus Company, for putting posters on the buses. He was not aware that the posters had been put on the buses until after Mr. Ngan had phoned him up about it.

Plaintiff added that Mr. Sin brought Mr. Ngan to plaintiff's office one day and Mr. Ngan took some of the posters away himself.

"What cock and bull story did you tell the S.C.A. when you saw him on the 28th?"—"No cock and bull story. He asked me what I meant by putting the posters on buses and on the streets. I told him that you had obtained permission from him."

This afternoon, the case was adjourned until March 2.

The H.M.S. "Empress of Canada" is due at Hong Kong from Yokohama on Saturday, February 12, at 6 a.m. and leaves for Manila at 5 p.m. the same day.

TELEGRAPH CO. TO PAY FOR BLACK VEIL

Operator's Mistake Costs Six Shillings

A telegraph operator's mistake in New York in sending the word "died" for "dying" in a telegram will cost the telegraph company precisely six shillings—the price of a mourning veil bought by the recipient of the telegram.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Ellen Asper, originally asked for about $50. She said that when she received the telegram, which was from her sister to tell her that her mother was dying, she bought the veil and made a long trip by train to go to her mother's funeral.

When she arrived, she found that her mother had recovered.

Mrs. Asper contended that she would not have been put to any of this expense if it had not been for the telegraphic error.

The court has ruled, however, that she could only recover the cost of the veil, since she might have made the trip even if the message had read correctly.

The latest report of the Carnegie Corporation shows that up to October 1 it had expended an income of 172,000,000 dollars (£34,000,000) for the advancement and diffusion of knowledge among the English-speaking peoples.

The Corporation was established in 1911 by an endowment of 135,000,000 dollars (£27,000,000) from the late Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the Scottish-born American steelmaster.

Memorials to Mr. Carnegie's philanthropy include 2,505 libraries, the Temple of Peace at the Hague and the Pan-American building at Washington.

During his lifetime he once declared that the duty of a man of wealth "is to consider all surplus revenues which come to him simply as Trust funds, which he is called upon to administer—the man of wealth thus becoming the mere trustee and agent for his poorer brethren."

SOUTH CHINA TROUNCE H.K.F.A. XI BRILLIANT PLAY IN CORINTHIAN TRIAL ENCOUNTER

WONG MEI-SHUN AND CHAN TAK FAI SHINE

The South China Athletic Association secured a smashing victory over the Hong Kong Football Association team yesterday on the Club ground in the trial game in preparation for the visit of the Islington Corinthians, the Chinese winning by 5 goals to 1.

The Chinese players immediately adapted themselves to the miserable conditions prevailing and had better control of the ball, but the adverse weather conditions, it was drizzling and the ground surface was very slippery, completely disorganised the Association team, who never really settled down to a sound combination.

The large gathering of spectators, although feeling the effects of the weather, were thrilled by a fine first half display by the Chinese, whose perfectly executed attacking movements and rocklike defence were prominently featured.

On yesterday's play the majority of the Chinese players deserved a place in the Colony eleven to meet the Corinthians. Chan Tak-fai catching the eye through out the encounter and was an inspired leader.

FINE DISTRIBUTION

Fine distribution to both wingers and unselfish openings near the Association goal area featured his play. He is fast becoming the best deputy to Fung King-cheong and on yesterday's display is certain to be considered by the Colony selectors.

With Fung King-cheong in attendance it was to be expected that the Association team would undergo a gruelling time under the prevailing conditions, for Fung is always at his best in wet weather.

WONG MEI-SHUN SHINE

Wong Mei-shun, making one of his all too rare appearances at inside-left, gave a grand display and looks a certainty for the South China team to meet the English visitors. He has completely changed his style of play and was always very dangerous with terrific drives anywhere near the Association area.

Bright, probably the best centre-half in the Colony at the moment, was always in the limelight in the Association team, while Sammy Tsang, in goal, and Bickford, on the left-wing, also shone.

Sheehan and Fraser, the two Association backs, commenced very shakily, although the former soon found his feet and gave a very good display, Fraser improving as the game progressed.

WALES LOSE RUGBY CLASSIC WITH 14 MEN

Scotland Triumph At Murrayfield

MCCARLEY SHINES FOR THE LOSERS

Murrayfield, Saturday.

A record invasion of 10,000 Welshmen to the International Rugby classic between Scotland and Wales in dull and threatening weather saw Scotland beat Wales by a goal and a penalty goal (8 points) to two tries (6 points) in a thrilling contest, played on an excellent pitch, watched by 60,000 people.

During the first quarter of an hour of the game the Welsh line had several narrow escapes, Cliff Jones being closely watched by Crawford. Scotland held their own in the scrums, and were very keen in their tackling, but Wales gradually gained a foothold in their own half.

Scotland threatened with several smart moves, but Wales cleared, and then scored completely against the run of play. A long kick ahead saw the ball cross the Scottish line, when Forrest stumbled and missed the touchdown, McCarley, a Welsh forward, following up closely to touch down for a try.

Then, just before the interval, McCarley following a lineout, took the Scottish defence by surprise and smartly broke through to register a try, which Jenkins failed to convert. At half time Wales were leading by six points to nil.

After the resumption Wales started with 14 men, E. Morgan having been sent to hospital with rib injuries, but despite this handicap the Welshmen continued to give a good account of themselves.

The Scots were on the defensive for a long period. Then Drummond crossed the line, but was recalled for an infringement, and Dorrard narrowly missed a drop goal. Crawford next registered a try, which he himself converted. The Welshmen were tremendously keen and countered the Scots players on every turn until shortly before the end, when Wales were penalised, and Crawford scored from the penalty kick, which resulted in Scotland winning by 8 points to 6.—Reuter.

Playing in a slight drizzle, the visiting C.B.A. Hockey eleven held the Macao Hockey Club to a one-all draw this afternoon.

Macao opened the scoring after ten minutes of play when, following a fast wing movement, Ramalho netted smartly. Three minutes later G. H. Fowler evened the score. The score stood at 1-1 at the interval and remained thus until the end of the game, although both sides came near to increasing their score during the second half.

The British pair, C. M. Jones and Miss Valerie Scott, entered the semi-final of the mixed doubles in the Christmas Tournament here today. They beat J. Lesueur and Mlle. Curdell, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

After a nervous opening which lost them the first set the British players rallied and made the score set-all. A fine fight for the match ensued. The British pair led 3-1, and then both dropped their services, and the French couple took the lead at 4-3. Playing on Mlle. Curdell's weakness, the British pair took the set at 6-4 for match.

In the other quarter-final P. Pelizza and Miss Jean Saunders beat M. Dessair and Mme. Varin, 6-3, 6-2. They meet Jones and Miss Scott in the semi-final.

In the women's doubles Miss Scott and Miss Saunders beat Mlle. Pannetier and Mme. Landry in the semi-final, 6-4, 6-1.

One of the most improved hockey players of this season is R. Smith, of the C.B.A., who has twice figured very prominently in recent matches, scoring goals against the Rajputana Rifles' and Kumaon Rifles' Battalion teams. He also plays for the European Y.M.C.A.

BRIDGE NOTES

By ELY CULBERTSON

Pointless Bid

A bad bid is not as bad as a silly bid. All of us, from time to time, become slightly distorted in our judgment of trick-taking possibilities; since we are not machines, such lapses must be condoned. There is one type of bid, however, for which there is no excuse—that is, a bid which is pointless. Such a bid as East made in the hand shown below.

NORTH

S.—K 10 4
H.—Q J 8
D.—A 8 6
C.—A 6 4 2

WEST

S.—Q 8 6 5
H.—10 7 6
D.—9 4 3
C.—Q 8 5

EAST

S.—3
H.—A K 9 5 4 3 2
D.—10 2
C.—10 9 3

SOUTH

S.—A J 9 7 2
H.—None
D.—K Q J 7 5
C.—K J 7

The bidding (East-West vulnerable):

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	3 hearts
4 diamonds	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

When East made his vulnerable three heart bid, he unwittingly played directly into the opponents' hands. East probably felt that since the opponents had not doubled he had escaped scot-free. In this he was very much mistaken.

Declarer ruffed the opening heart lead and on the assurance that East was marked with a long line of hearts, since he could have no other values for his bid, naturally decided to play West for long spades. He therefore led the nine and let it ride, following this with a finesse to dummy's ten. West's spades were then easily picked up and the contract became a laydown, declarer graciously conceding a club trick at the finish.

East's three heart bid was not atrocious, judged by the standard of taking tricks, although as a matter of fact it did risk a severe penalty. The prime objection to it is that it was futile. South had shown the strength of an opening bid, at least. West had been unable to overcall or double. North had shown decided strength with his two no trump response. What good could a three heart bid do? If East were so fortunate as to find West with some heart support and enough general strength to either stand or raise three hearts, was it conceivable that the non-vulnerable opponents would surrender? On the other hand, if the opponents liked the heart bid, they could at their discretion double it and defeat it anywhere from two to four tricks. So all that East was doing when he bid three hearts was to advertise great heart length and thus provide South, the eventual declarer, with a splendid blue print of the situation. Had East remained discreetly silent, South might very easily have gone astray in his play of the hand.

TO-DAY'S QUESTION

Question: Bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 heart Pass ?
What should South bid, holding:

S.—K Q 10 4, H.—K Q J 10 9 6,
D.—6 3, C.—2?

Answer: South should bid three hearts, to set the trump suit and pave the way for North to make asking bids.

What's On At the Cinemas

AT THE QUEEN'S—"The Life of Emile Zola"—Warners' most ambitious film production of many months. This picture is a vibrant, tense and emotional story about the man who fought a nation with his pen and successfully championed the cause of the exiled Capt. Alfred Dreyfus. With Paul Muni in the title role, supported by distinguished players, the film is finely made and merits high rating as cinema art and fully deserves significant recognition.

AT THE KING'S—"Heidi", with Shirley Temple, Jean Hersholt, Arthur Treacher and Helen Westley. Shirley Temple's greatest triumph, supported by a great performance by Jean Hersholt. Johnna Spyri's story read and loved by millions, reproduced with all details on the screen.

AT THE ALHAMBRA—"High Flyers", with Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey and Lupe Velez. An uproarious comedy in which the two comedians are wanted for smuggling and steal a police plane. The plot revolves around their frantic efforts to evade the Police after the plane had crashed on a millionaire's estate where they are mistaken for detectives and are forced into solving a jewel robbery and thus are vindicated in the end.

AT THE STAR—"Artists And Models"—Gags, girls, artists, models and the hit tunes of the year, not forgetting the gorgeous sets and zestful story. The all-star cast includes Jack Benny, Ida Lupino, Richard Arlen, Gail Patrick, Ben Blue, Judy Canova, Yacht Club Boys, Martha Raye, Gostelanetz Orchestra and 50 of America's most beautiful models.

AT THE ORIENTAL—"Way Out West"—Sad faced Laurel and pompous, jolly Hardy are a riot of fun from the time they enter the picture across a desert stream with their trick donkey until their fade-out crossing the stream on the way back. It is their first Western and the boys whoop it up as a pair of "tenderhearts." In the supporting cast are Sharon Lynne, James Finlayson and Rosina Lawrence.

AT THE MAJESTIC—"Fire Over England"—Narrating the breathless adventures in the days of "Good Queen Bess." That it is presented by Alexander Korda the picture needs no other introduction. The imposing cast is headed by Flora Robson who plays Queen Elizabeth, Raymond Massey, Leslie Banks, Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh.

POPULAR FALLACIES

That Dick Whittington was poor when young.
This is not so.
In 1380 — when he was only 22 years of age — he was a rich city mercer and lent large sums of money to Richard II, Henry IV and Henry V. MONROE CALCULATING MACHINES also were never poor in features and are to-day more rich in advantages than any other similar machine.
